Gentlepersons:

If you collectively let the 'Osama ben Ladens" of the world PC industry off with just a minor slap on the wrist, you will have grossly disserved the United States and the world. Gates and his minions are some of the worst robber barons that have ever lived. Do not be fooled by their surface-only contriteness. They are just the wolf dressed up in Grandma's clothing, just waiting to ravage all PC consumers at their first opportunity. You must sanction them severely and also you must subject them to an ongoing investigation of their daily activities and trends. To do less would be to commit treason on the consumers of the world.
